Handicapped youths learn skills at education center in Jordan

By Jeff Zhorne
PASADENA — The 1983-84
school year at the Young Women's Muslim Association Special Education Center in Al Bunyat, Jordan, should be an outstanding experience for the mentally handicapped stu-dents reported Dick Weber, who works at the center on behalf of the Ambassador Foundation.

"For instance, some of the handicapped are not familiar with modern electric appliances," Mr. Weber said June 3 during a visit here. "So when they flip the switch on a power machine like a drill press or shaper, it will be an experience for them.

"I used safety guards and power feeds and modified some machines to make them safe, so the students hands will be as far away from dan-ger as possible," Mr. Weber com-

When Pastor General Herbert W. Armstrong approved the Jordan program last July 11, Joseph Locke, principal of Imperial Schools here, was named director. "The purpose of the vocational program is to help students acquire a skill at which they can work," said Mr. Locke.

Jordan has virtually no unem ployment, so the three-year vocational program at the Bunyat Center should help them find jobs." Mr. Weber said. "Employer prospects look promising already, especially since the minister of information told me there is nothing like this [the vocational section] in all of Jordan

Sept. 8 Mr. Locke, Mr. Weber, his wife Pat and daughter Stacy and Greg Achtemichuk, a Pasadena Ambassador College student, traveled to Al Bunyat, southwest of Amman, where Mr. Weber and Mr. Locke planned educational courses in carpentry and other construction and maintenance trades with Ghusoon Karah, director of Bunyat Center. (See "Jordan Project 'Moving Ahead,' "WN, Sept. 13, 1982.)
Since then Mr. Weber has been remodeling the vocational section of the Bunyat Center and instructing the youths in the use and safety of tools and equipment.

While in Pasadena the Webers made plans for the 1983-84 school year, devised budgets and schedules, made travel arrangements and attended the May 30 through June 9 Ministerial Refreshing Program.

Mr. Weber said equipment has been purchased to teach arts and crafts, horticulture, masonry, carpen-try, window washing, home economs and block making.

Within Bunyat Center are three divisions: preschool, classes for those age 6 to 13 and the vocational Eight Pasadena Ambassador students were selected to aid in the Jordanian program, after they com-pleted a special education class at Ambassador taught by Mr. Locke and Imperial vice principal Robert Cote. The students are John Andrews, Dave Baker, Bruce Dague, Stan Daniel, Keith Olson, Ramona Chitwood, Anita Wilson and Cathy McNeil.

The group will fly to Amman Aug. 21 to be teachers' aides, helping instruct courses in physical education, music, horticulture and other subjects and working with preschool children, Mr. Weber said. Most will attend the Feast in Jerusa-

"Mr. Armstrong's visit in mid-March was one of the highlights of the year," said Mr. Weber, who added that Jordan's Princess Sarvath regularly conducts meetings at the center. Bunyat Center is one of the princess' special projects.
"Rosalyn Carter, the former

First Lady of the United States, and the Dutchess of Kent visited us this year," said Mrs. Weber, "and Dick gave them a tour through the voca-tional area." The Bunyat Center is a "pilot project of what's being done in the field."

Mr. Locke remarked that, initially, one official from Jordan was apprehensive about the program, but now is "100 percent behind and just overwhelmed about the work Mr. Weber has done," said Mr. Locke.

When the students arrive in August, their attitude of giving and serving will help immensely, said Mr. Weber. "The biggest reason 1983-84 is going to be a success is because of the presence of Ambas-sador students living God's way people notice that and greatly appreciate it," he added.

"In Jordan we miss our family, church services and friends," said Mr. Weber, "but working there has been exciting and interesting most of all, though, it's for God's Work."

Minister visits members in Spain and Portugal

PASADENA living in Spain and Portugal now understand what it is like to have a minister," said Fernando Barriga, pastor of the Mexicala and Tijuana,

FERNANDO BARRIGA

Mr. Barriga and his wife visited the brethren in Portugal, Spain and the Canary Islands, which belong to Spain, April 20 to May 19. Mr. Barriga said: "The purpose of the trip was not like my visits in the past. I did not baptize any people. The trip was mainly to be with the brethren to confirm their faith

Except for Mr. Barriga's annual visit and the Feast of Tabernacles, the only contact the brethren there have with a minister is by letter.

The members in Spain and Portugal are scattered. Usually the only time the brethren meet together is for the Feast of Tabernacles. Seven members live in Portugal and 17 in Spain.

"One man told me that he was beginning to really anticipate the Sabbath and the Feast of Tabernacles. When a person really anticipates the Sabbath, he is on the right track."

Mr. Barriga said that five mem bers are distributing Pura Verdad (Spanish Plain Truth) subscription cards in four Spanish cities. A Pura Verdad advertisement ran in the Iberian edition of the June Reader's Digest.

Mr. Barriga said that the Feast of Tabernacles will take place in Cul-lera, Spain, this year. Spanishspeaking transfers are welcome; no translations will be offered. Brethren will stay in the Hotel Sicania, a four-star hotel on the Mediterranean coast. Room and board for eight days is $150 a person. Room and board for children under 12 is $26.50. For more information, write to Fernando Barriga, Box 1323, Chula Vista, Calif., 92012.

Behind the summit smiles at Williamsburg

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. - The moderate upswing in economic for-tunes throughout much of the Western world virtually assured that this year's seven-nation Sum-mit of Industrialized Nations attended by this writer - would be with hopes renewed that the gloomiest clouds of the recess were at last lifting, the leaders of the United States, West Germany, Japan, Britain, France, Canada and Italy pledged to keep up the fight against inflation and to back off — for now at least — from the brink of an all-out trade war.

The consensus among the 3,000 or so journalists gathered here was that the winner was the host head of state, U.S. President Ronald Rea-gan. The Times of London correspondent said that the conference marked the occasion "when Presi-dent Reagan emerged as an international leader of stature, finally man-aging to shed his cowboy image."

With the United States obviously in the position of being the locomo-tive of recovery, the other leaders were in no position to rock the boat. Widespread predictions that there would be loud complaints over continuing high interest rates in the United States — a contributing factor to the strength of the dollar over the other currencies — failed to materialize have faded far into the background After the summit, the beleaguered French franc plummeted against the dollar once more. Anticipating this development, U.S. Treasury Secretary Donald Regan repeatedly stressed at the summit his belief that the real problem is not with a strong dollar but with lack of confidence in the French currency because of President Francois Mitterrand's persistence in pursuing costly socialist programs.

Not that frictions over this issue

It may indeed have been Mr. Rea-gan's Summit, but for the first time, the U.S. chief executive found a healthy majority of support for his policies — on economic issues especially, but on the broader range of East-West political and security relations, as well.

British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher — who could attend only one day in Williamsburg before fly-ing back home to continue her elec-tion campaign — is referred to as an ideological soulmate of Mr. Rea-

The new chancellor of West Germany, Helmut Kohl, a first-time summitteer, is considerably more in tune with the U.S. President's thinking than was the former chancellor. Helmut Schmidt.

Italy's Prime Minister Amintore Fanfani represents the NATO country that has been the least prob-lem to Washington concerning the deployment of the new Pershing 2

Prime Minister Yasuhiro Naka-one of Japan and Mr. Reagan hit it off well when the prime minister visited Washington earlier this year. This personal relationship helps smooth over the perennially bumpy ward into some of its East-bloc satellite countries.

U.S. Secretary of State George Schultz declared that the Soviet warning was intended as "a shot across the bow of this conference.

The Kremlin threat instead back-relationship of the two countries over trade issues

Key: confidence in America

Viewing the activities of this annual summit of summits (my fourth such conference), one thing was impressed upon me forcefully just how important is the factor o confidence in America to the stability of the entire Western world.

This was demonstrated by the crude attempt on the part of the Soviet Union, just as the summit began, to rattle those in attendance. Moscow warned that if the Pershings and cruise missiles were indeed deployed in Western Europe begin-ning at the end of 1983, it might feel compelled to move some of its own Euromissile nuclear weapons forfired. In an unprecedented show of solidarity, the eight leaders assembled (the Common Market president also attends) unanii vowed support for the NATO deployment program.

The unanimity was all the more surprising considering it entailed support from non-NATO Japan and from France, which maintains a sep-arate defense structure and participates with the alliance only on political matters.

Behind the smiles and optimistic oint statements arrived at in Williamsburg, however, are serious and widening differences only papered over for now in the pastel bloom of economic recovery. A serious rift between America and her friends is only a matter of time.

Before the conference, I talked to several foreign relations experts in three of the think tanks that are headquartered in Washington, D.C. The upshot of their comments to me: Watch out for the next few months!

The fabric of European-American relations could well be ripped asunder over the issues of missiles in Europe and the deepening U.S. involvement in Central America—an area of the world that most Europeans view with far less alarm than the administration in Washington.

Reporters and commentators did not hesitate to write Mr. Strauss' political obituary. Almost all observers agreed that his ambitions for high office had at long last been laid to rest.

So much for newspaper opinion

Few deny that Mr. Strauss has more personal charisma than any other leader in Western Germany, or that he possesses unmatched intellectual gifts, unrivaled political instinct and wide ministerial (cabinet-level) experience.

Yet the perceptions of his politi-cal peers have denied him the highest office in the land. Like the Win-ston Churchill of the '20s and '30s, the man from Bavaria is viewed in some circles as mercurial, uncontrollable and extreme — qualities that tempt certain associates to calculate the end of his career and to rid the party of his presence perma-

Faith in honest doubt

Just one more thing

By Dexter H. Faulkner

"I just don't believe it." "That's a likely story!" Have you ever secretly said to yourself or to God in prayer, "God . . . I have some doubts"?

Most of us are plagued with secret doubts at times. Calamities jar our courage. Past failures shake our confidence in our abilities to undertake new ventures. Failure to look beyond our natural abilities and resources breeds doubt.

After years in a given career some entertain second thoughts as to whether it is the right career for them. They fear they are never going to amount to much in their given field of endeavor

John the Baptist had a moment like this. He spent his entire ministry preparing people for the coming of Christ. But when Herod imprisoned him, John entertained second thoughts about his life's work. Remember he was human. Could it be that he had wasted his life? Had he given his life for a cause that wasn't worth it? He sent his disciples to Christ to ask if He was really the Messiah (Matthew 11:3). Christ, knowing John's human emotions, answered him with an encouraging and uplifting report found in Matthew 11:4-12. All John's doubts must have melted away after hearing that response.

Doubts come from Satan

People have doubts about God. They ask, "Could God love someone like me?" "Is the Bible really God's like me?" "Is the Bible really God's Word?" "Can God help me with my problems?"

Satan is the one who plants those thoughts in our minds. He is a master at planting seeds of doubt (Genesis Unresolved doubts condemn us to a life of mediocrity. Doubt-filled men and women never become great because their potential for greatness is sabotaged by their doubts

"Thanks a lot!" you're probably saying. "Until you ripped the cover off, no one knew I had any doubts; but now I've been exposed. My self-condemnation was bad enough, but hav-ing my doubts exposed really hurts." Good! Now we can get down to solving the problems of doubts.

The best way to come to grips with doubts is to learn from one who has been there — doubting Thomas. An examination of the apostle Thomas' experience (John 20:19-31) reveals four principles to help us escape the stronghold of doubt.

• We must honestly admit ou. doubts. Thomas did this openly. After the resurrection 10 of the apostles were in the upper room when Christ made His first appearance. Thomas was absent. When he returned he found the 10 in an uproar with excitement.

'Thomas, guess what? We've seen the Lord. He was here in this very room while you were gone!"

Thomas was unimpressed. I can picture him as he said: "Men — my friends — I'll be honest with you. Unless I see Him with my eyes and touch Him with my hands, I won't believe you."

If we ever hope to deal with doubts, we must be willing to honestly admit that we don't believe. Thomas wasn't willing to live out his life pretending to believe something he didn't. He couldn't smile and proclaim, "He is risen," while not believing inside.

 We must rely on the fellowship and association of other believers. Where was Thomas when Christ appeared to the 10? What he feared most happened — Christ had been crucified — but instead of remaining with the others, he apparently sought refuge in isolation.

We need the fellowship of other believers to strengthen our faith. Isolation from Sabbath and Holy Day services and Bible studies breeds and nourishes doubt (Hebrews 10:25, New American Standard Bible, unless noted). The longer we remain in isolation, the greater our doubts

• We need to daily remember God's promises. Christ frequently spoke of His death, but He always affirmed that He would rise again. In his personal grief, Thomas forgot the wonderful promise of the resur-rection and was unable to believe when he heard of His resurrection.

Many doubts arise because we have either forgotten or haven't under stood God's promises about our prob-lems. We are instructed in God's Word: "I can do all things through Him who strengthens me" (Philippians 4:13).

• Most important we need to bring our doubts directly to God. Thomas wanted a personal audience with Jesus Christ. He heard the 10 declare the resurrection, but he was unwilling to accept their words without seeing Him.

Help from Christ

For one long week Thomas wallowed in his doubts. Then Christ came 'Peace be with you!' Then He again: " again: "Peace be with your finer here; see my hands. Reach out your hand and put it into my side. Stop doubting and believe' " (John 20:26-27, New International Version).

Christ in His giving, loving way presented Himself to Thomas and invited his personal examination. We have no record of Thomas accepting the invitation but somehow I think h did. The next words record the words of a now-believing disciple. Thomas cried out, "My Lord and my God!" (John 20:28). The visible presence of Christ was more than enough to dissolve Thomas' doubts.

Christ dealt tenderly with Thomas. But He did not stop there. He added a special lesson: "Because you have seen Me, have you believed? Blessed are they who did not see, and yet believed" (John 20:29). We Christians today are the ones

Christ was referring to. We must believe without a personal audience with Christ

We all are at times plaqued with doubts. But at the same time, we know God has provided a way to deal with them. We must take our doubts directly to God in prayer and seek counsel with God's ministers. If we do this we won't miss our own personal appointment with God in the future.

Pasadena country fair features chili cook-off, entertainment

By Pamilla Mosher

PASADENA — The third annual Country Fair and Invitational Chili Cook-off, sponsored by the Glendale, Los Angeles and Reseda. Calif., churches, took place on the Imperial Schools campus Memorial Day, May 30.

Pamilla Mosher is a member

Thirty-seven entries repre-senting 14 California congregations were judged by evangelist Joseph Tkach Sr., director of Ministerial Services; evangelist Ellis La Ravia, director of Facilities Management; Aaron Dean, Pastor General Herbert W. Armstrong's personal aide; Dexter Faulkner, managing editor of the Work's publications; Mike Feazell of Ministerial Services: and Carlton Green, Ambassador College Food Service director.

Winners are: mild, Elnora Burks, Los Angeles; medium, Beverly Bogart, Santa Barbara, Calif.; and nacho, Russell Moore, Reseda.

After considerable onstage delib eration ministers John Halford. Victor Root, Arthur Suckling and Rod Matthews awarded a first place prize in the pastor's cook-off catego-ry to Abner Washington, pastor of the Los Angeles church, winner for the second year in a row.

In the log-sawing contest, the team from Fresno and Visalia, Calif., took the top title, while the winners of the women's bake-off are: cakes, Judy van Landuyt, Pasadena; pies, Pearl Fritsche, Reseda; and cake decorat-ing, Janie Walker, Glendale. Miqueln Germano of Glendora, Calif., won the Youth Opportunities United division of the chili cook-off.

Other Memorial Day activities included country and western entertainment. Mexican folklorico dancers, clowns, pony rides, games and attractions. On hand were the country fair's mascot, Eeny Meeny Chili Beany (a 7-foot pinto bean), and a cast of characters including Miss Cherry Tomato, the Pro-Chili Coalition and the Chiliettes Cheerleaders.

Mr. Moore, who also won the 1981 chili cook-off with his tradi-tional "Rusty Nail Chili," ex-plained his technique for creating a prize-winning recipe.

"You have to know what flavor you're after," said Mr. Moore. Many cooks just experiment, hoping to hit on a good taste without any clear idea of what they may come up

Mr. Moore said: "What we like about chili is the flavor. The hotness is the ingredient that adds an extra kick, but chili that's all kick and no flavor doesn't make it."

Mr. Moore favors the "outdoors taste," a chuckwagon-style chili. One ingredient that sets his apart is liquid smoke. The trick is knowing what is hot enough too hot — yet still getting the flavor through

When to add an ingredient can be almost as important as whether to add it at all, Mr. Moore continued. Some ingredients, like liquid smoke, tend to cook out in prolonged cooking, so should be added ward the end. Likewise for lemon juice and brown sugar, which he adds to "soften the bite."

Other variables that bear considerably on the final taste are the type and quality of spices, seasonings, tomatoes, tomato sauce and meat Steps must be followed to preserve and unlock the full flavor, Mr Moore remarked.

"Properly prepared, good chili shouldn't give you heartburn," he said. "If it does, it's because there's too much acid in it.'

Last year, new to chili tasting and unaware of its hazards, Mr. Mat-liked it, though — he ate it all." But 1983 would surely be differ ent. Mr. Matthews would be openminded yet wary.

"We were told to evaluate the chili on its consistency, flavor and heat," said Mr. Matthews. "The four of us would taste each exquisite chili, decide the top three, then compare scores, hoping to award the plaque to the right entry.

After tasting the first chili, Mr. Matthews cleansed his palate with beer and moved to the second. "I tasted it then collapsed at the shock of this stunning brew, Mr. Suckling had to give me mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to revive me, so we could continue. It was agony!

Making their way through all sev-en, just before the feared "judges burn-out" set in, the four ministers reached a unanimous decision: cup No. 1. It's owner was Abner Washington, pastor of the Los Angeles, Calif., church, a two-time winner of the pastor's cook-off category.

"Yes, Mr. Washington's chili was good chili; it had a bite and a tang to it, of a good consistency," said Mr. Matthews. "Some of the others . . . well, were a little more anemic."

Then the four judges presented Joseph Tkach Sr., director of Ministerial Services, with a sample of the winning entry.

"Next year the judges are requesting a year's supply of peppermint 'Life Savers,' " concluded Mr. Matthews.
Mr. Halford remarked: "Everybody should have the chance to be a chili judge once — underline once.

It resulted in his dismissal from the Defense Ministry. Roughly speaking the Spiegel incident could be compared with Mr. Churchill's Dardanelles — the ill-fated World War I naval operation that ousted him from his maritime cabinet post and put him in political limbo.

In his long life Mr. Churchill faced his political end more than once. In 1936 he supported his personal friend Edward VIII (later the Duke of Windsor) to the very day of abdication. In those days the king was not a popular figure. In Mr. Churchill's own words, "I was myself so smitten in public opinion that it was the almost universal view that my political life was at last ended" (The Gathering Storm, page 197).

Ouite frankly Mr. Churchill was not appreciated by many key political figures of that era. In remarking about the two prime ministers that preceded him in office, he wrote, "In these closing years before the war I should have found it easier to work with [Stanley] Baldwin, as I knew him, than with [Neville] Chamberlain; but neither of them had any wish to work with me except in the last resort" (page 200). Upon Mr. Churchill's exclusion from the Ministry of Defense, he lamented: "To me this definite, and as it seemed, final exclusion from all share in our preparations for defense was a heavy blow Baldwin certainly had good reason to use the last flickers of his power against one who had exposed his istakes so severely and so often' (pages 180-181).

All this, however, eventually worked in Mr. Churchill's favor. He further wrote: "Mr. Baldwin knew no more than I how great was the service he was doing me in preventing me from becoming involved in all the Cabinet compromises and shortcomings of the next three

International Studies, defense analyst Mike Moodie told me that nearly all likely outcomes of the Euro missile deployment program bode ill for the Western alliance.

A less than unanimous decision on the part of NATO's 16 members to proceed with deployment by December would not sit well with the United States.

"An 8-7-1 decision," he said, hardly would reflect confidence in U.S. alliance leadership. A decision postpone the deployment advocated by some Europeans would be considered even worse.
Without solid European backing, said a German, Manfred Hamm, at the Heritage Foundation, United States would certainly be justified in calling for the removal of its ground forces from Europe, rather than exposing them to greater Soviet risk

At the same time, said Mr. Hamm, the Europeans are deeply concerned that the intercontinental strategic (U.S.- rather than European-based) nuclear weapons that protect them are in danger of being frozen into disuse because of the mushrooming nuclear freeze movement in the United States.

Particularly alarming to Euro-peans is the profreeze position taken by America's liberal Roman Catholic bishops. West German and French bishops, interestingly enough, have publicly stated their opposition to the thrust of the position of their counterparts in America.

Central America turmoil Western Europeans are worried, too, that the United States is becom ing mired in a new Vietnam in Central America. Mr. Reagan confirmed their fears during the summit when he removed two key officials in his Central America policy structure, replac ing them with individuals considered to be more hard line.

According to Mr. Moodie, Central America promises to be the most critical foreign policy issue of the 1984 presidential campaign. "Over the next 18 months," he said, "Central America has the potential to rip us apart again."

The controversy over Central America, Mr. Moodie added, "feeds into European relations" — and from two opposite angles.

Some younger generation Euro peans, feeling more sympathy for leftist causes, believe that the U.S approach to the spreading crisis in Central America is dead wrong. This adds to the impression the majority of young Europeans have about America: namely, that the United States is a greater threat to world peace than is the Soviet Union.

Conservative Europeans, on the other hand, wonder whether the United States has the will to stand up to a threat from Moscow, this time right in America's front yard.

If America can't defend its own interests close to home, reason the Europeans, how can the United States be depended upon to defend Western Europe from Soviet pressure.

Mr. Moodie recounted a confer ence in Washington about the future of the Western alliance at which some European delegates argued for an independent nuclear capability for Western Europe.

I related to Mr. Moodie the con tents of a letter I received from an acquaintance in Bonn. West Germa ny, Eric Sontag.

Mr. Sontag, a reader of The Plain Truth, is an expert on communist propaganda. He loves America but is disturbed over developments at high lev els in the country. In his letter, Mr. Sontag enclosed a copy of a telegram he sent May 4 to the U.S. House of Representatives, which read: "If you cannot box your way out of paperbag Nicaragua and your bishops freeze Nicaragua and your bishops freeze nukes, West Germans better get their own nuclear weapons from Israel. (Those last two words are interesting: a Bonn-Tel Aviv nuclear axis?)

Mr. Sontag appended his copy to me with the additional words: "May sound crazy, but reflects changing attitude of even conservatives here (in West Germany)."

Yes, there is a lot simmering behind the happy facade of Williams burg. The European-American pot will boil over before long.

DETROIT, Mich. — By the year 2000, poverty will be a thing of the past, according to a report by Herman Kahn, chairman and director of the New York-based Hudson Institute.

The world in the year 2000 was only one of more than 150 topics at the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS) here. The meeting, the AAAS' 149th, was conducted May 26 to 31 at the Detroit Renaissance Center

The Plain Truth has sent writers and editors to cover the annual con-clave since the early 1960s. Plain Truth staff writers Michael Snyder and Dan Taylor were assigned to cover the Detroit meetings, which included presentations by Edward Rowney, chief negotiator for the Strategic Arms Reduction Talks (START) in Geneva, Switzerland; Dr. Kahn; and others.

The liberal tenor of the 1983 AAAS meeting did little to hide the political nature that modern science has taken upon itself, according to Mr. Taylor. "Many scientists have come to believe that science can indeed solve all of humankind's problems," he said.

Mr. Snyder, who attended the 1982 AAAS meeting in Washington, D.C., said he noted far greater interest in The Plain Truth itself. "Mr. Taylor and I received dozens of inquiries about the PT from journalists and scientists," he said. "Many, including reporters from NBC [National Broadcasting Co.] news, U.S. News & World Report, Newsweek and other officials, said that while they couldn't agree with everything we say in the magazine, they did find our point of view refreshing and interesting."

according to a United Press International (UPI) report June 2. JTV channel 6 consists of news in English and programs from the United States and England.

The success of JTV 6 among the Israeli viewing public can be mea-sured by the thousands of direction-al Channel 6 antennas that are as much a part of the Israeli skyline as rooftop solar water heaters, the report said.

PASADENA - During the Days of Unleavened Bread, Bill Sidney and his wife Daphne traveled from Australia to the Solomon Islands to meet with the members and several who requested personal contact with the Church.

Mr. Sidney baptized three new tembers, bringing the total to 16. The new members included a tribal chieftain and a government official. Lectures for Plain Truth subscribers were conducted in the capital, Honiara, on the island of Guadalcanal, and also on the island of Gizo. Twenty new people attended the lectures.

Mr. Sidney also spoke to a spe cially convened board meeting of the Solomon Islands Broadcasting Corp. to discuss the airing of the World Tomorrow radio program. Church groups in the Solomon Islands have vigorously opposed the island's only radio station accepting the program. The board was favorably impressed by a videotape of the tel-vision program, and the Church hopes for a positive decision soon.

On this trip, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney also visited the management of the radio station on the island nation of Nauru. The manager is the wife of a cabinet minister in Nauru, and she felt that the World Tomorrow program would add a new dimension to religious broadcasting in Nauru, Mr. Sidney reported. The Church looks for a favorable decision there too.

Australia

Two new television stations added in Australia now place 88 per-cent of the population in areas where cent of the population in areas where the World Tomorrow television program can be seen, the Australian Office at Burleigh Heads reported. WIN4, the only television station broadcasting from Wollongong, New South Wales, agreed to air The World Tomorrow each Sunday at 8:30 a.m. This time slot is the one most requested by sponsors on Sun-day mornings and is just before a popular current affairs program.

WIN4 controls the fourth largest regional linkup in Australia, and its signal reaches south into central Victoria, west as far as Canberra, and north into the southern suburbs of Sydney. In some areas it is the only television station people can tune into.

After WIN4's acceptance of the telecast the management of NBN3 in Newcastle offered time each Sun-day. This offer was accepted and airing was to begin in late May.

Twenty-one stations and 26 relay stations including eight of the top 10 television markets in Australia now carry the World Tomorrow program

French advertising

More than 6,300 responses have flooded in to an advertisement placed in the French weekly magazine Valeurs Actuelles. The ad. using an offer of The Plain Truth in six languages and drawing on the multinational outlook of Europeans, has already brought a 5.2 percent response and increased the circulation of La Pure Verite (French Plain Truth) by 20 percent in France.

A similar ad is scheduled for the Belgian weekly magazine Femmes d'Aujourd'hui, which has a circulation of 507,000.

African visit

Bernard Andrist, office manager in Switzerland, left Geneva May 23 for a three-week trip to Cameroon and Zaire in Africa, to visit members and pursue application for legal recognition in Cameroon. More details will follow upon his return
